Collection of personal information

Generally, if you are applying for an American Express product or service we will collect personal information from you (such as name, account number, email, mailing address, phone number or date of birth). If you are a company or business, this may involve collecting personal information about certain employees, directors or company representatives. At or before the time we collect personal information, we will tell you why we are collecting it, how we might use it, who we might disclose it to and what will happen if you do not provide that information to us. We generally do this by giving you a copy of a privacy notice or statement when you apply for the product or service (see – Privacy Notices for Specific Products & Services).

If you choose not to provide the personal information we request, we may not be able to provide our products and services to you.

Sensitive Personal Information: We generally do not collect sensitive information (for example, information relating to ethnic origin, religious or philosophical beliefs, membership of a political or trade association, sexual preferences or health). If we ever need to, we would only do so with your prior consent.

How we collect personal information

American Express collects information about you in a number of ways, including:

- directly from you - for example, when you apply for our products or services, enter one of our competitions or enrol in one of our promotions;
