

Automation — making your cash flow, flow.

Manually dealing with accounts receivable (AR) data can take time away from projects that need your attention. You can even run up against common cash flow problems such as delayed receivables, lack of credit visibility and risk exposure.

Inaccessible AR data slows down your productivity.

But you're not alone. Many other business owners deal with these same problems.

51%
of surveyed corporations say they struggle with receiving their payments from customers and business partners on time.<sup>1</sup>

47%
say they grapple with matching payments to the appropriate invoices and purchase orders.<sup>2</sup>

Automation gives you cash flow control.

So, how do you simplify your cash flow? Automation. Automation streamlines your receivables and makes your cash flow work for you, saving your organization time and money.

87%
of surveyed firms say they now have a faster processing speed.<sup>3</sup>

79%
say team efficiency is improved.<sup>4</sup>

72%
say they saved on operational costs.<sup>5</sup>

Meet HighRadius. Automation simplified.

American Express has connected with HighRadius, an AI-powered, fully integrated receivables platform that helps automate manual work across the order-to-cash process, giving you full control over your cash flow.

That's all great, but what can HighRadius do for you exactly?

HighRadius can:

Automate credit reviews that identify high-risk customers.<sup>6</sup>

Streamline invoice delivery and help manage disputes for fast resolution.<sup>7</sup>

Provide frictionless self-service payment portals with predictive analytics on customer payment trends.

Offer straight-through, same-day cash application.

Don't wait. Contact your client manager for more information on how to automate payments with American Express and HighRadius today.
